

Program Review Process

Merit Review

The merit review process for Connecticut continues to consist of the four components identified in the Plan of Work for 2000-2004 (page 228). This year two academic departments conducted external reviews of programs including teaching, research, and extension. The animal science department review and the plant science department review were completed. Plans are under way for the conduct of reviews in nutritional science and the department of extension.

Scientific Peer Review

The scientific peer review process for Connecticut continues to consist of the process outline in the Plan of Work for 2000-2004 (pages 228-229). No significant changes have been made.
